Project Details

In the summer of 2018, owners of the Fillmore

Theater contracted EverGreene Architectural Arts to repaint the ceiling and upper side walls of the auditorium, which was in need of touch ups and repairs. The work included new canvas murals, conservation of existing murals, scagliola repairs and polishing, as well as decorative painting. A preliminary design was developed at EverGreene's Brooklyn studio, and mockups were performed on site. The work was constrained to the three month off-season for the theater. A team of over 20 craftsmen implemented the design and completed the extensive project to the highest level of quality within the accelerated timeframe.

The paint was sprayed across the entirety of the ornamental areas utilizing a HVLP paint sprayer. Once the paint was dry, our painting team cut in the background colors against the ornament. Finally, a glaze was applied across the surfaces of the ornament using a rag removal process to tie all the areas together.
